In this assignment, we have created a composition of elements and tried to apply the principles of design.

The first step we took was sorting and choosing specific elements for specific emotions. ex: for anger we chose red color.

And then we used the respective elements of each emotion and combined them to create a composition .

Laughter

Shape: Round. elliptical
Color: Yellow, green, orange
Lines: full of curves and bit of sharp points.
Texture: shiny ,smooth

Sorrow

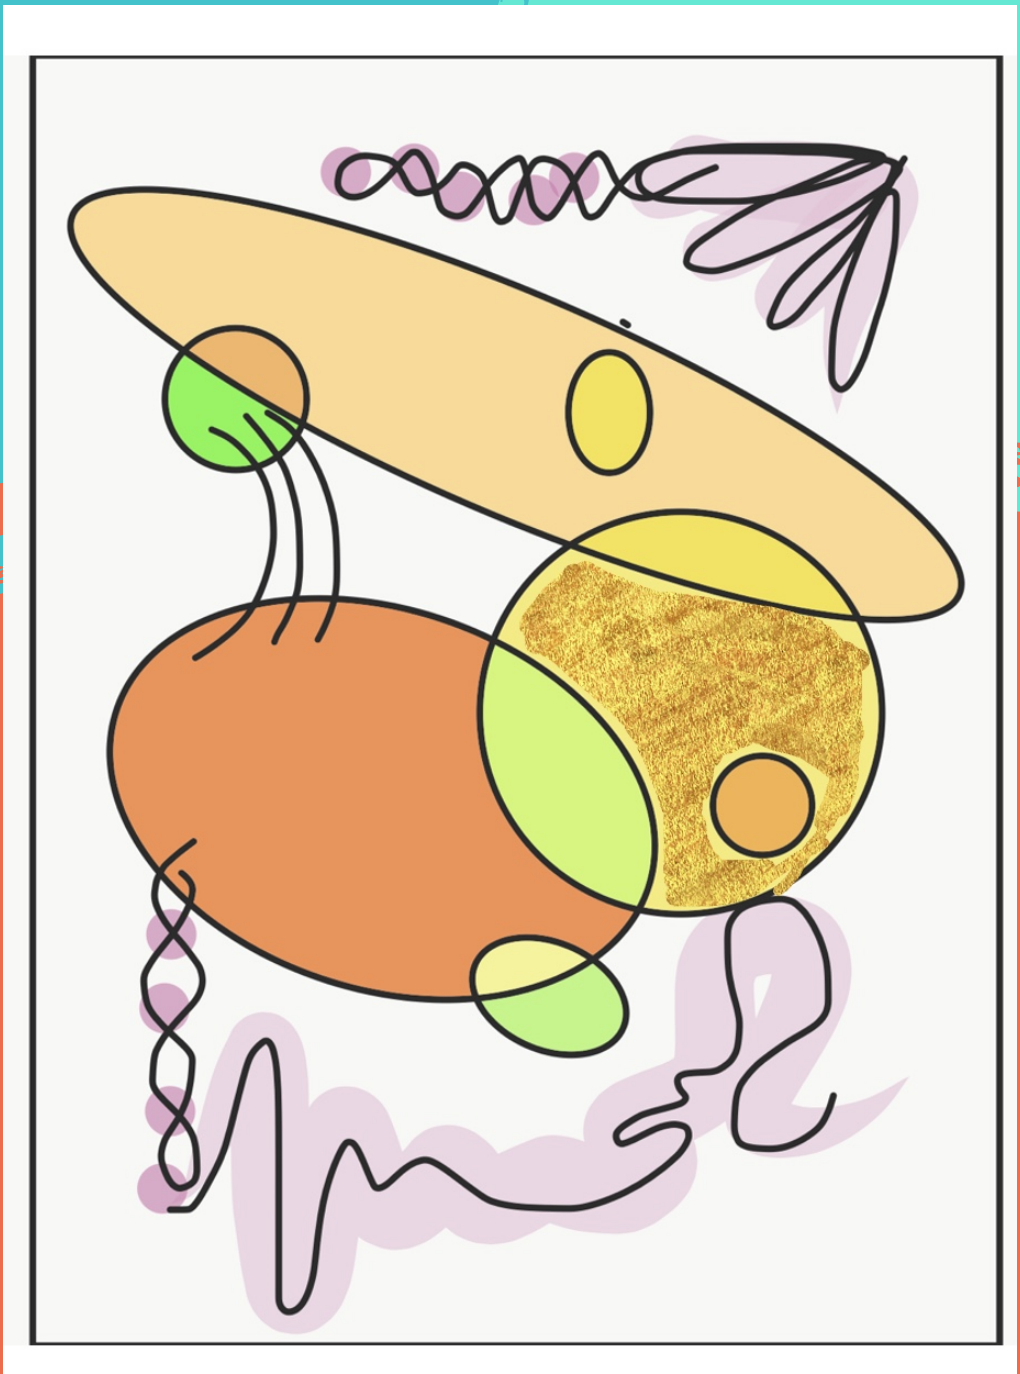
Shape: Crescent , rectangle
Color: Black, grey
Lines: like a wave, no pattern, dense and clustered .
Texture: cracked ,prickly

Love

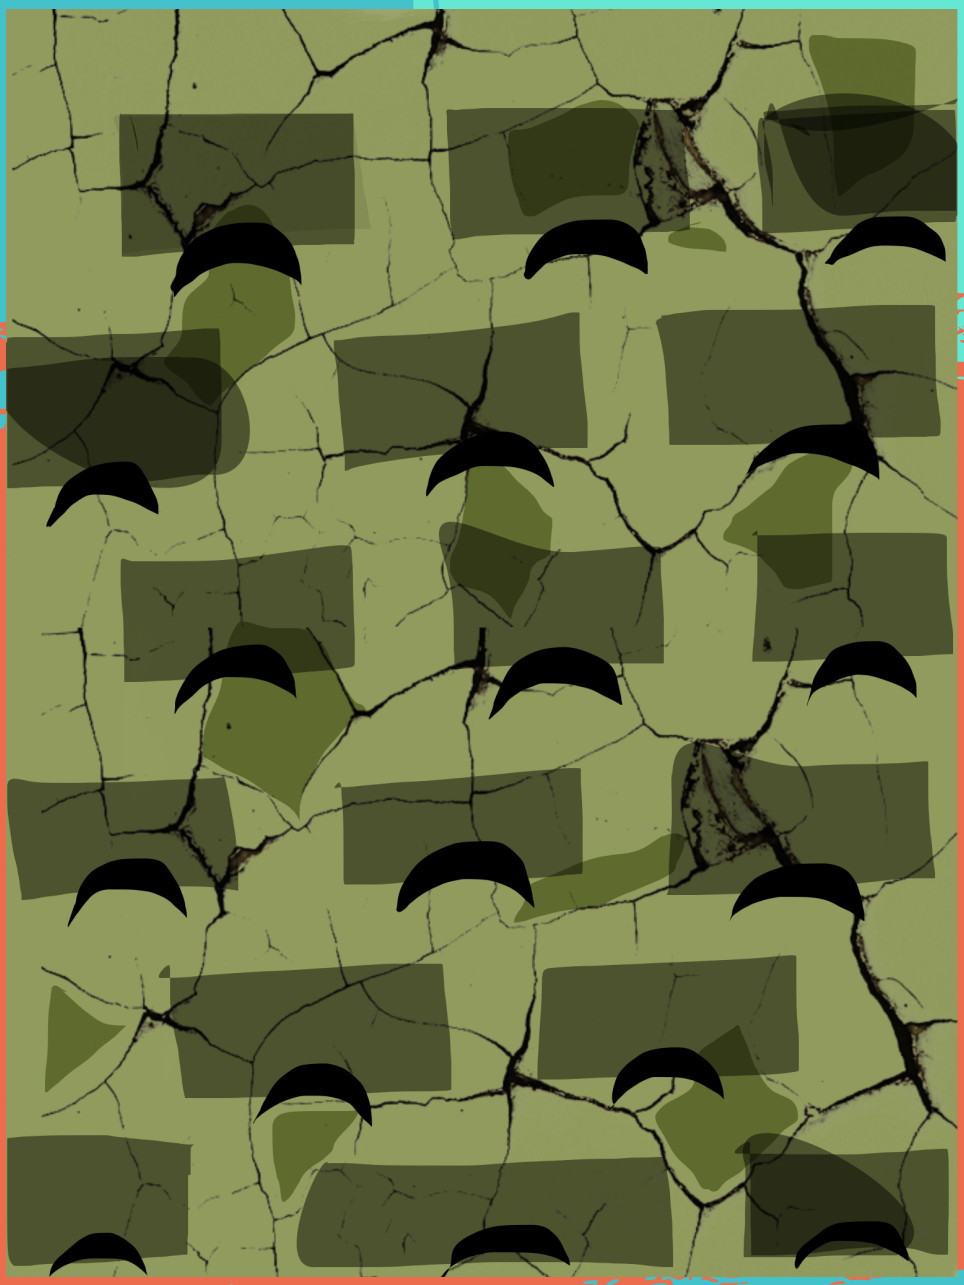
Shape: heart , pentagon
Color: pink and light red, baby blue
Lines: curvy lines , big curves that are not dense .
Texture: soft , fuzzy

Anger

Shape: triangle , diamond
Color: Red , green
Lines: sharp lines with clear turns.
Texture: gritty, rough .



Laughter is depicted with circle and clean strokes. Filled with vibrant colours like yellow , orange and baby pink.As a result, this drawing was created .



We have created sorrow using crescent shapes which look like upturned mouth . A combination of dull colours have been used to depict sadness.The cracked texture creates an emphasis on sorrow .

The picture for love includes a combination of hearts and pentagon of pink and light red shades. I added baby blue to give a cozy feel to the pic.The pic is symmetrical and has wonderful balance.

For anger, we used shapes like triangle and diamond in red and green. Added to that, comical features were also used to depict anger as a pattern. Lines of bright red in random order were also used to add agitation to the pic.
